Beta Epsilon hosts 2007 Welcome Back Week

As the second semester approached, Beta Epsilon endeavored to promote Delta Sigma Pi throughout the Price College of Business. Through the Welcome Back Week table placed in the Price lounge, we increased student exposure to Delta Sigma Pi as well as established a relationship with the new dean, Dean Evans. One of the many advantages of having the DSP table set up as school started was the opportunity to inform business students about recruitment week, so they could plan to attend events ahead of time. Since recruitment was soon to come, Beta Epsilon had the advantage of speaking with individuals interested in the Fraternity. Once again, Welcome Back Week was successful for Beta Epsilon, and furthered our prominence in Price.

Beta Epsilon Recruits Fall 2007 Pledges

By Brother Ashley Kuchel

The spring semester is yet off to another start which means that recruitment week was soon to follow.

Beta Epsilon launched their recruitment week on Monday, February 5th and concluded the week with interviews on Sunday, February 11th at noon. Everyday of the week but Friday we hosted an informational table inside of Adams Hall from 9am-2pm. This table gave potential members the opportunity to meet some of our chapter, hear about their experiences as members of DeltaSig, and gain more of an insight in what we do as a chapter.

We hosted our informational on Wednesday night, February 7, 2007 at 7pm in Price College. With the addition of our new wonderful fall pledge class, we hoped to be able to recruit twenty more young members to keep our legacy going! Our recruitment schedule consisted of Meet and Greets on Tuesday night at Rudy's BBQ and Charleston's on Thursday night, and laser tag on Friday night.

DSP Embarks on Corporate Sponsorships

By Brother Mike Lopez

As the new 2007 year begins, Delta Sigma Pi will embark on its ambitions to gaining Corporate Sponsors. We as a chapter will construct a professional packet exhibiting our strengths, talents, and aspirations which will be presented to a number of companies. We are projecting to reach out to many various businesses and corporations mainly operating in Norman, Moore, and the Oklahoma City surrounding area. The packets will also include our history, mission, and various incentives for sponsoring our Fraternity.

We hope to gain great contributions from our sponsors through this new process. Making our Fraternity known, as well as possessing creditable recognition is vital to our success. We believe that our organization is among the elite organizations at The University of Oklahoma and we intend to keep prospering. Achieving Corporate Sponsorships for our future is another objective and goal in which we plan to acquire and accomplish as Brothers.

Please contact Mike Lopez, Vice President of Public Relations, for more information or interest regarding this matter.

New Pledge Class Seeks Alumni Speakers

By Brother Robert Simpson

As the new VP-Pledge Education Chair, I am looking forward to this semester's pledge process. This semester along with keeping some of the old, we are trying something new.

One of the options available was to require the pledges to "seek/obtain professional/career and/or academic advice from a Deltasig alumnus." This will involve every pledge to invite an alumnus to come have a Q&A with the pledge class each week on that topic. This is for the pledge class to familiarize themselves with our Alumni of whom we are extremely proud of, and also to help them realize that this truly is a lifelong journey.

Another primary goal of mine this semester is to give them a sense of Deltasig tradition. Not only do I want this pledge class to become one cohesive group, but also to grow within them the desire to be able to call us brother and to become members that we are proud to call brothers.

Beginning with their pinning ceremony on February 14, 2007 until regional initiation at the University of North Texas in Denton on April 21, 2007, we look forward to an exciting pledge process. We would like to invite the Alumni to visit and acquaint you with the pledges, and also let the pledges see what they are working at becoming.

This year I will be directly helped by my committee consisting of four amazing members- Iten Naguib, Martin Howell, Clare Dye, and Elle Hartford. All of whom are going to be able to add to this pledge process in a unique way (and who are all from the Commission family). I look forward to working with chapter and the Alumni to making this one of the best pledge classes ever.

What DSP Means to New Brother Del Regno

By Brother Katie Del Regno

When I initially went into the process for becoming a Deltasig, I didn't really know much about the organization. However, I had a good feeling about it from the start thanks to meeting a few of my future brothers at a recruitment week table.

As a pledge, I felt so welcomed by all of the brothers, and I know our pledge class really looked to them as this tight-knit group we wanted to join. My favorite part of the pledge process was getting sigs because I had the opportunity to sit down and get to know members I might not otherwise have sought out. It turned out that after talking with one Brother, we both took similar trips around Europe this summer, and could even compare parts of town from places we'd been.

Also, I can't say enough about my pledge brothers. The members always said it, but I never truly understood how important your pledge class is until now, looking back.

Now, being a new member, I am proud to say that I am a Deltasig. It is still strange that I get to serve as the Historian my first semester as a member as well. I'm now one of those Exec people whom this semester's pledge class will have to get a sig from. It's exciting though. My planner these days is packed-full, but I look forward to the days with a "DSP" event marked on them.

One of my favorite quotes by which I try to live, says that "you get out of it what you put into it". Delta Sigma Pi is not just something to put on your resume, or a club to put little time into. It is a brotherhood, and these people are now part of my family, and that is an awesome thing.

Alumni: DSP Wants to Hear From You!

As part of the alumni relations chair, it is my duty to help graduating members and current members look for jobs and internships. Beta Epsilon members are constantly looking for different opportunities to challenge themselves and put their leadership skills to use.

One of the ways this goal can be accomplished is through alumni. I would like members to know more about the wonderful companies that our alumni work for and the positions they hold. I would also like to encourage members to look into graduate programs as well. With so many great companies and graduate programs all over the country, it can be hard to find information about all of them. I encourage all alumni to send information about your companies and positions, as well as graduate programs that would be beneficial to members to angielou@ou.edu.
